

EOF-Using EOF-Schema Changes

Christian Pekeler

James Seigel and I have written an article that might be of interest to this group. We describe a simple method for encoding structural changes to a database as objects. These objects can be used by applications to automatically bring their databases up-to-date on startup. We include example source code for WebObjects, usage patterns, and the lessons we have learned. Check it out:

<http://www.stepwise.com/Articles/2005/DBChanges>

Migrations

Check out the code for ERXMigrator in Wonder for another approach